

Add Your Voice to the AI Conversation

Be part of Max's AI Chronicles – a public education video series demystifying AI!

Are you using Artificial Intelligence (AI) or Machine Learning (ML) in your work, your products, or your research? Do you want to help the public better understand this fast-moving technology in a simple, accessible way? Join the Center for Cybersecurity Innovation & Outreach at Iowa State University of Science and Technology ("CyIO") in Max's AI Chronicles, a creative new video series where real people—like you—share their insights in short (3–5 minute) video interviews. Your interview will be part of a broader effort to educate the public on how AI is used, what it can do, and what we all need to know as it becomes part of everyday life.

What We're Looking For:

- Professionals using AI/ML in their day-to-day work
- Creators or developers of AI-powered tools, products, or services
- Researchers exploring AI applications or ethical questions
- Anyone with a real-world perspective on how AI is impacting their field

What You'll Do:

- Participate in a short (3–5 minute) Zoom interview with Max (our animated host)
- Talk about what AI means in your world—no technical jargon needed!
- Share one cool thing AI is helping you do, and one thing people should understand about it

Why It Matters:

The public is curious—and often concerned—about AI. Your story can help bring clarity and context to these conversations. We're building a public library of short, engaging videos that inform, inspire, and promote thoughtful discussion.

Resources and Support:

We currently have two sample videos available:

- One introduces the series in which Max receives his assignment from his teacher.
- The second is a sample interview, showing what your segment might look like.

In addition, CyIO is developing an Educator's Guide that will include:

- Sample discussion questions and classroom activities
- Prompts connected to your interview content
- Ideas for using Max's AI Chronicles in educational settings

We welcome your ideas! We'd love to include any suggestions for topics or teaching activities related to your interview.
